

Rideshare OSINT

Car Based SE For Fun & Profit

Hello!

I am Edward Miro

c1phor.github.io

sudsocialclub.com

@c1phor

Ridesharing

Why I did it, and how I came up with the idea for this talk.

SE 101

- Phishing/Vishing/Smishing
- Drops/Baiting
- Physical Security (tailgating)

You don't need any technical proficiency if a user will just give you their password.

“

How To Win Friends and Influence People

Dale Carnegie

Six ways to make people like you:

- Become genuinely interested in other people.
- Smile.
- Remember that a person's name is to that person the sweetest and most important sound in any language.
- Be a good listener. Encourage others to talk about themselves.
- Talk in terms of the other person's interests.
- Make the other person feel important – and do it sincerely.

Practicing Social Skills via Rideshare Driving

How to be successful driving for rideshare:

- Clean Car
- Good Driver
- SOCIAL Awareness

Weaponizing Rideshare

- PASSIVE
- ACTIVE
- STRATEGIC STAGING

Conclusions?

 r/askpsychology

Why do my Lyft passengers share so many personal details with me?

It feels like many of my passengers share so much sensitive information with me. I've heard about people's medical problems, criminal histories, romantic lives. Is there something about the driver/passenger relationship that makes people feel comfortable or that the interaction feels anonymous so they can be more free? Thoughts?

 1 Comment  Share  Edit Post  Save  Hide ...

100% Upvoted

When you step back and think about it, you have many qualities of a good bartender. It's a temporary, friendly, paid, trusted relationship which is about satisfying an immediate need. But it is even more than that. There must be something about you that gives off a positive, listening vibe to your passengers. I know when I get into a car if the driver wants to be social or not. You might enjoy being social. There is something about your sincere connection to your passengers which allows them to exhale and to open up. You have an empathetic ear that makes people feel safe.

 Reply  Give Award  Share  Report  Save

One Last Story

- I am a big believer that SE doesn't have to be inherently unethical or immoral.

Red Flags:

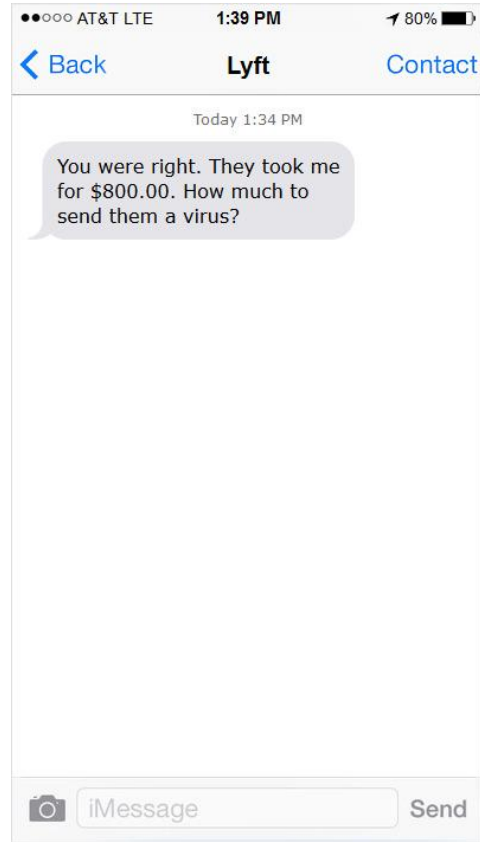

- Seller wouldn't talk on phone
- Seller name didn't seem legitimate
- Name of shipping company didn't match URL in email
- Googling company name shows close match with legitimate company
- Company website very poorly designed and implemented
- Company has no social media presence
- Email address of contact at company using generic email address and not a legit domain
- Contact at company could only call her and she was never able to make inbound calls
- Phone number of company was Google Voice number
- Reverse image searches showed "proof" photos unoriginal

Tricks Used:

- Listed as adoption versus a sale to alleviate concern
- Handed off to “second party” to build legitimacy
- Use cute puppy pictures to appeal to emotion and overrule suspicion
- Counted on target not paying attention to detail
- Shipper established a sense of urgency

Closing Thoughts

- Framing is key.

Thanks!

Any questions?

Edward Miro

c1phor.github.io

sudosocialclub.com

@c1phor